

Floods Leave 11 Persons Dead, Towns Isolated

By The Associated Press

Emergency aid was rushed into the Appalachian Mountain coal mining region today where thousands of persons in four states are homeless and whole towns stricken from a devastating winter flood.

High waters that left at least 11 dead in two states and damages running into untold millions of dollars, raged downstream today, threatening havoc on still more communities.

The flood that swept suddenly out of the mountains into southeastern Kentucky, West Virginia, southern Virginia and east Tennessee already was recorded as the region's worst in this century if not in history.

Gov. Cecil Underwood of West Virginia last night joined Kentucky's Gov. A. B. Chandler in petitioning President Eisenhower for immediate help. Eight of the dead were counted in Kentucky and three in West Virginia.

In Kentucky, Prestonsburg, Paintsville and Beattyville shored up barriers against the onrushing Kentucky River even as mud-covered cities in the flood's wake called for portable generators, water purifiers and typhoid vaccine.

At least a thousand persons fled their homes at Prestonsburg where last night a fire broke out, destroying three buildings. All firemen could do was let it burn itself out and prevent it from spreading.

The Army at Ft. Knox sent soldiers, medical corps men and supplies to stricken areas with the help of the National Guard, Red Cross and Civil Defense.

Army helicopters dropped through overcast skies to take typhoid serum, medicine, blankets and foods to isolated communities.

Upstream towns such as Barbourville and Hazard in Kentucky, Pound Va. and Logan W. Va. took the worst licking. Evacuees in these places began the grim task of digging out the mud and clearing ruins.

S. C. Van Curen managing editor of the Harlan Ky. Daily Enterprise one of the first newsmen to reach Hazard told of small children crying for milk and drinking water.

He described the Kentucky River: city a coal center of about 7000 population as dark and wet. He said the homeless stood in mud to their knees gazing at the ruins of their possession with no place to go little to eat and only the clothes on their backs.

Justice Reed Resigns From Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today accepted the resignation of Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed effective Feb. 25.

Reed 72 is a Democrat. He has served on the highest judicial tribunal 19 years.

The naming of his successor will be Eisenhower's fourth appointee on the Supreme Court.

Eisenhower's other appointees are Chief Justice Warren and Associate Justices Harlan and Brennan.

The White House said it had nothing to announce at this time regarding a successor.

Reed turned in a letter of resignation dated today saying he wished to retire from active service.

He is taking advantage of a provision of law which allows him to retire at full pay and subject to call for occasional service on the court if this is desired.

The White House indicated that Reed might have let the President know his intentions in advance of submission of the letter. That may have taken place at a White House reception honoring the Supreme Court on Tuesday night.

Eisenhower, in a letter to Reed, said he was taking the opportunity "to tender my congratulations on your long and splendid record in public service."

Ruling for AP&L to Be Appealed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A ruling that Arkansas Power & Light Co. was not invading the territory of a co-operative in selling electricity to The Crossett Co. will be appealed by the state Public Service Commission.

Circuit Judge J. Mitchell Cockrill ruled last week that AP&L could sell power to The Crossett Co. in Ashley and Chicot counties. The PSC appealed to the state Supreme Court.

President Asks Change in Laws of Immigration

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today for new immigration legislation that would grant a haven in the United States to persons who "flee from Communist persecution and tyranny."

In a special message to Congress, the President also requested liberalization of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, basic immigration law of the land.

At the outset of his message the President outlined the need for emergency legislation to help Hungarian and other refugees.

He said the eyes of the world have been fixed on Hungary where thousands of men, women and children have fled to seek asylum abroad.

"Our position of world leadership demands that, in partnership with other nations of the free world, we be in a position to grant that asylum," Mr. Eisenhower said.

He called for two basic steps to help anyone — no Hungarians alone — fleeing from communism:

"First, I recommend that the Congress enact legislation giving the President general authority to authorize the United States temporarily under such conditions as he may prescribe escapes, selected by the secretary of state, who have fled or in the future flee from Communist persecution and tyranny," the President said.

He said the number who should be granted temporary admission on a parole basis in any one year should not exceed the average of aliens who have been permitted to enter the country over the past eight years, by special acts of Congress outside the basic immigration system.

"Second, I urge the Congress promptly to enact legislation giving the necessary discretionary power to the attorney general to permit aliens paroled into the United States, who intend to stay here, to remain as permanent residents," he said.

The President said this legislation "would effectively solve the problem of the Hungarian escapees who have already arrived." Furthermore, he said, it would provide "a means for coping with the cases of certain Korean orphans, adopted children and other aliens who have been granted emergency admission to this country and now remain here in an indefinite status."

The President said this type of legislation should be permanent "so that administrative authorities are in a position to act promptly and with assurance in facing emergencies which may arise in the future."

Some Hungarian refugees now in the United States have been granted permanent immigration visas under the refugee relief act which expired last Dec. 31. But thousands of others have been brought here on a parole basis, and their status in this country will not be assured until Congress acts.

Children Agree Parents Don't Understand Them

By SAUL PETT

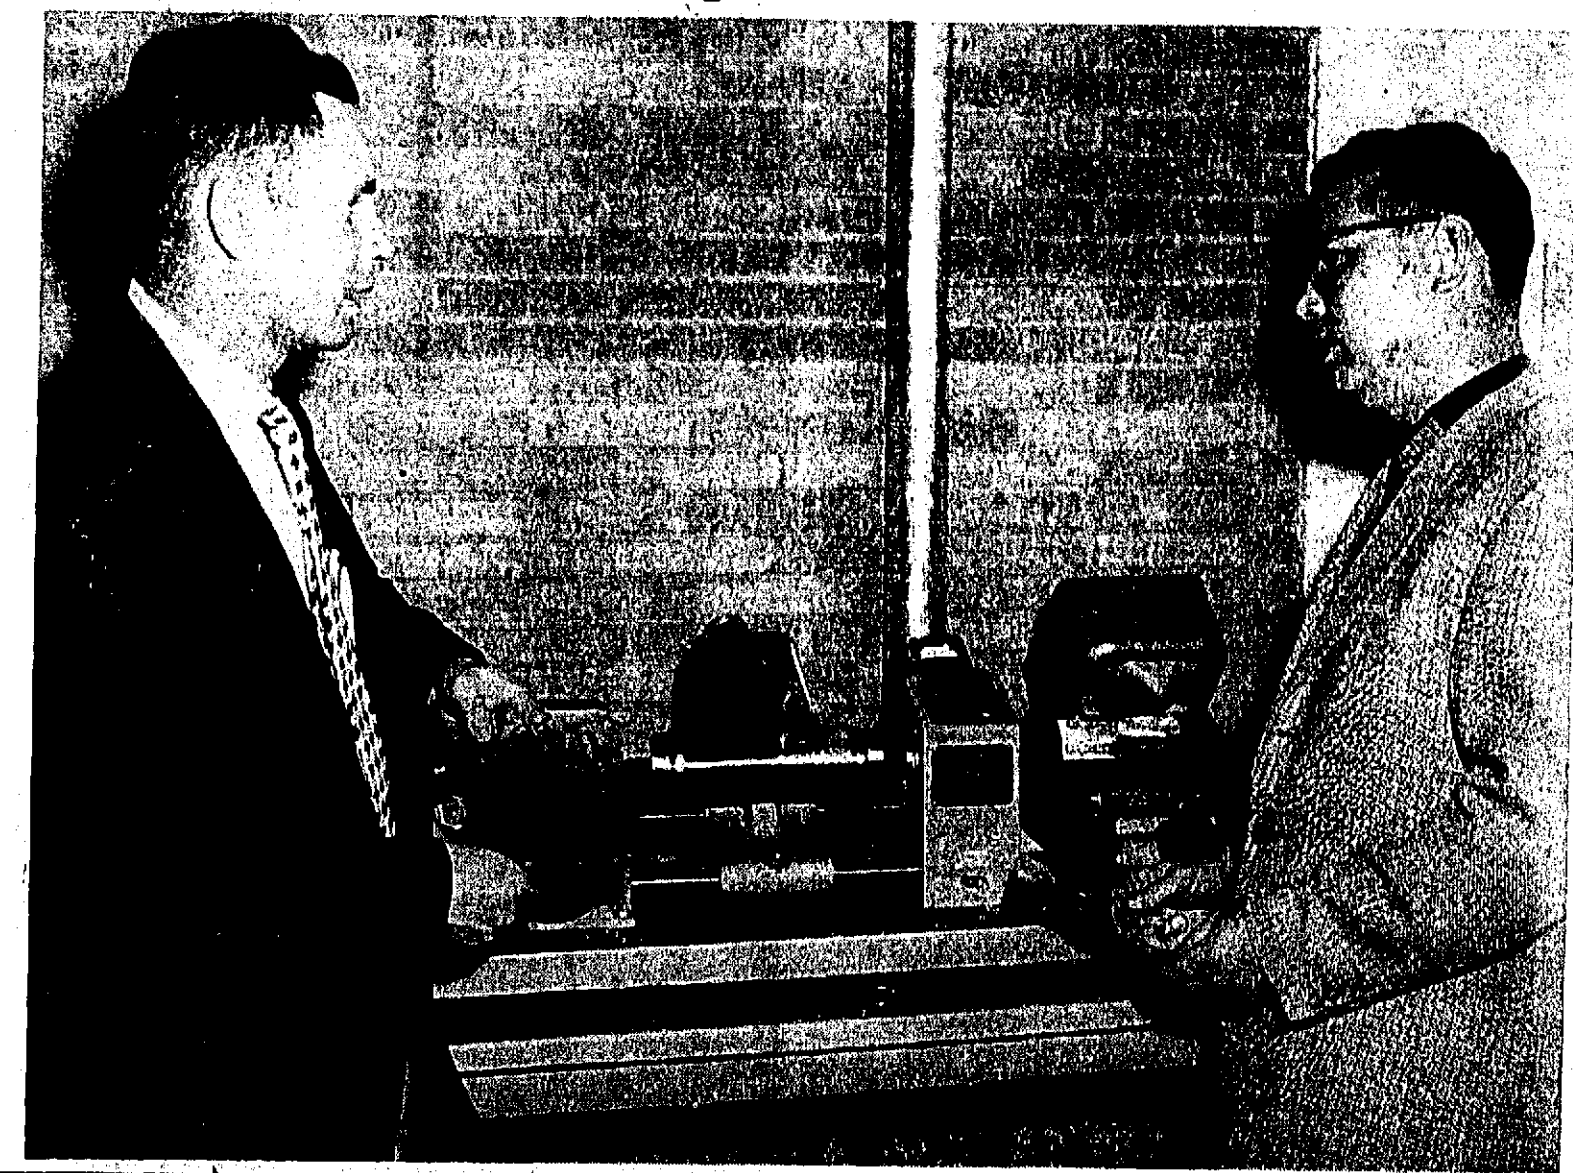

NEW YORK (AP) — As the janitor in a small but exclusive sorority house I am continually awed by the ability of young ladies to disagree.

If it were not that it came as a reflex action one might say that the two young ladies examining our place have raised the business of consistent disagreement to a fine art.

Why they differ so frequently is a puzzle. Neither is favored or compared or made to feel competitive by their charming understanding intelligent parents. Still it has been going on a long time ever back when Kathy was 3 and Amy 6.

I remember a weekday at a deserted stretch of ocean beach. Nothing but clean white sand in either direction for miles no people except the four of us. And yet after a tranquil three min-

Star Installs Fairchild Electronic Engraver to Produce Own Printing Plates for Local Pictures

Clarence Chapman, left, of Jackson, Miss., regional salesman for Fairchild Graphic Equipment, Inc., explains to Paul H. Jones, managing editor, the operation of the Scan-A-Graver, a leased electronic plate-making machine for pictures which was installed in the Hope Star office yesterday. Although placed in operation at once by the newspaper staff the machine will be supervised for several days beginning next Monday by Wayne Steiny of Paris, Texas, the Fairchild service expert for this area.

Will Ask for PSC Probe Regardless

State Capital Bureau

LITTLE ROCK (Special) — Flying in the face of warnings from House veterans that he hasn't a chance of putting over his resolution for investigation of the Public Service Commission's re-making innovations Rep. Hardy Croxton of Benton County vowed today that before the end of the week he will insist that the Rules Committee clear the way for a vote.

First-term Croxton realizes that he stirred up a veritable hornet's nest when he included among the objectives of the proposed inquiry a determination of the circumstances under which state officials and employees became owners of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. stock just at the time it was rising phenomenally on the impetus of successive rate increases granted by the PSC.

During the argument before the Supreme Court Monday presented by opposing counsel in the appeal of major industries from the November 1955 rate increase Representative Croxton was an interested listener. Asked for a comment he said he would withhold any statement until he took the floor in the House to advocate adoption of his resolution.

The PSC in granting Ark-La a $45,000,000 increase in industrial rates abandoned the rate base procedure and adopted the field price method of evaluating the gas produced by the utility. Croxton has proposed that the House Public Service Corporations Committee study the revolutionary doctrine adopted by the PSC and make some recommendations for consideration of the General Assembly.

The moment it appears that the Croxton resolution will be debated in the House on Thursday.

For 21 years Hope Star has been sending its pictures off to larger cities — Little Rock, Shreveport, Texarkana — to have the plates made which reproduce pictures on the press.

But that business ended yesterday when the newspaper turned out 12 picture plates right here in Hope, using one of the electronic marvels of this push-button age — the Fairchild Scan-A-Graver. After the controls are set the machine copies a picture into a plastic plate automatically, completing a four-column cut in 21 minutes, and stopping of its own accord.

In the above picture the machine looks to be just what it really is — an electronic lathe. The photograph, wrapped around the right-hand cylinder of the lathe, is scanned by an electric eye, which telegraphs what it sees over to the left-hand cylinder. Around that cylinder is wrapped a blank plastic plate. And as the lathe revolves a red-hot needle etches out on the plastic the black-and-white message received from the electric eye on the other cylinder.

What the Scan-A-Graver means to the local reading public is simply this:

Where pictures formerly had to be sent out of town, with from one to two days' delay in publication while waiting on the printing plates, it is now possible to get today's pictures into print today. As a matter of fact the newspaper can shoot a picture at 1 p. m. and get it into print by 2:45.

Story of the Machine
Here is the story of this remarkable machine — the Scan-A-Graver:

The craft of photo-chemical engraving is one of comparative high skill — therefore costly. In fact, it wasn't until the 1920's — forty years after the first photoengraving was printed in the New York Graphic — that there were enough skilled craftsmen to make engravings for even the big papers.

For many years, then, the use of photographs was limited to only a few of the 1,700 daily and 10,000 weekly newspapers in this country. Meanwhile, the advent of picture magazines, the movies, and other visual media was making newspaper readers more and more picture conscious. Editors too.

It was a small-town editor who got the idea for making engravings using electronics instead of a highly skilled craftsman. His name is Walter Hovey and he drew his first rough sketch of a "direct engraving machine" in 1899 when he was City Editor of the Fort Dodge (Iowa) Chronicle.

Young Hovey wanted to use pictures of local people in his paper and it annoyed him to have to resort to "bottle-plate" pictures of people and scenes foreign to Fort Dodge just to brighten up his

Bill Erroneously Reported by AP

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Associated Press yesterday erroneously reported that a bill introduced in the House would give chancelors the authority to waive blood tests and waiting period requirements for marriage licenses under certain conditions.

Chancelors already have the authority. The bill, by Rep. Bryan McCallen of Clay County, would re-enact the present law and add a provision for destruction of certain records after a lapse of a year.

Lions Hear About School Problems

Hope Lions Club held its regular weekly luncheon and business meeting Monday noon at the Barlow Hotel. W. L. Tate was in charge of the program and presented Mrs. Frank King, President of the Oglesby P. T. A. and Mrs. Jack Lowe, President of the Hope Jr.-Sr. High P. T. A.

Mrs. King spoke first and listed some needs for Hope schools. They included: Relief teachers for the four principals in the Hope grade schools, a Speech Therapist for the 94 Hope children who have a speech impediment, a public school music teacher, equipment and supplies in the form of books, film strips, maps, charts and cabinets.

Mrs. Lowe stated in her talk that a survey had been made on the Hope school system by the P. T. A. and that it was found that the Junior High building needed two more class rooms since the eight class rooms are now accommodating 303 pupils in the 7th and 8th grades.

Personnel problems show that four Physical Education teachers are handling 850 students. Hope has three men and one woman P. E. instructors.

It was stated that more personnel and facilities were needed in the Home Economics and Manual Training department. Also, that the Biology and Chemistry Lab needed supplies and just did meet the requirements of the North Central Association.

A Guidance Counselor Director would be a tremendous help. Mrs. Lowe said, and pertaining to teachers salaries, Hope's teachers receive an average salary of $2350.00 per year; the State average is $2430.00 and the national average is $4330.00.

Three new members were taken into the club. Ralph Higgs, L. Rowland and Garrett Willis and one reinstated member, Floyd Osborn. George Frazier was a guest of the club.

Sales Tax Issue Goes to House, Gets First Rebuff

Channel Sought for White River

NEWPORT, Mo. — A nine-foot navigation channel is being sought for the White River from Newport to Clarendon.

A group of Jackson County business, farm and industrial leaders, meeting here Tuesday, voted to seek approval of the project by Army Engineers and Congress. They said the channel would result in lower freight rates through competitive barge routes.

If the channel were dug as proposed, river navigation would be possible from here to the Mississippi River and to Gulf of Mexico ports.

Mayor Judson N. Hunt of Newport was elected chairman of the White River Valley Association Navigation Division.

Senate Passage of Tax Increase Mere Formality

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The most important legislation of the 1957 Legislature — Gov. Orval Faubus' 22-million-dollar tax program — received a resounding endorsement in the Senate yesterday.

The upper chamber sent the 3-1/2 tax program on its way in less than three hours. It now goes to the House, where a tougher and more prolonged fight is expected.

After two hours of debate, the Senate voted 25-0 in favor of increasing the sales tax from two to three cents. Not a voice was raised against the broadening of the income tax base and increases in the severance tax. The vote was 26-0 on the income tax and 34-0 on the severance tax. The latter required a three-fourths majority.

"The clincher — which blocks reconsideration — and the emergency clause, which makes a measure effective immediately, were adopted on each bill."

A companion bill, which allocates the additional revenue to public schools, the State Hospital, welfare and other state services, also went through 34-0. Veteran Sen. Lee Bearden of Leachville quietly and smoothly guided the tax program to a showdown — and the prevailing margins were about what he had predicted.

The voting on the income and severance tax measures was almost anti-climatic, and even the 13 speakers on the sales tax seven for and six against — said that everyone's mind already was made up.

Except for the increase from two to three cents, the sales tax would remain the same. The increase is expected to produce an additional 10 million dollars, some 14 million of which is scheduled to go for classroom teachers' salaries and retirement.

The severance tax would be increased 50 per cent or more on some resources and the increase is expected to total about one million.

Masons to Confer Degree Friday

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — House opponents today blocked the customary routine second reading of Gov. Orval Faubus' bill to increase the state sales tax from 2 to 3 cents per dollar.

Other bills in the governor's tax program to raise an estimated 22 million additional dollars a year were read a second time without protest after Rep. Eugene Fleeman of Mississippi County, the administration floor leader in the House said he had no intention of trying to call up the measures immediately.

"The bills passed the Senate yesterday and were received by the House today."

Technically a suspension of the rules is necessary to permit a second reading on the same day the bill is read the first time. This regulation customarily is waived.

Today Reps. Dewey Silies of Hot Spring County and Talbot Field Jr., of Hempstead County objected to the second reading.

A vote was taken and 42 members voted against suspension of the rules and 32 for the suspension.

A majority of two-thirds of those voting, or 40, would have been required to suspend the rules.

After the roll call Fleeman, who vainly had tried to make a statement before the vote was taken, got the floor. He said that if the customary second reading was permitted he had no intention of trying to call up the bills for action before next week.

The House then permitted second readings of Faubus' proposals to increase the income tax take by lowering exemptions and to boost the severance tax charge for removal of oil, gas, bauxite and coal.

However, the sales tax opponents refused to rescind from their stand against second reading of that bill.

The sales tax bill may now not be read again until tomorrow at the earliest.

The other bills were referred to the House Revenue and Taxation Committee for consideration.

Shaky Building Guards Fortune in Diamonds

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A small fortune in diamonds lies buried in the center of the city of Philadelphia but the shaky bulk of a burned out building stands guard over it like a dragon over some fairy tale treasure.

The diamonds — 50,000 worth — are only part of the valuable property of six jewelry firms that was buried under debris when one of Philadelphia's worst fires collapsed the interior of a four-story building on Dec. 28.

Thousands of pedestrians daily pass the rubble-strewn site at Eighth and Chestnut streets a stone's throw from Gimbel's department store. Many joke with policemen about the diamonds they are guarding under the ruins night and day.

But it's no joking matter to the jewelry merchants members of the diamond center of Philadelphia.

They are in the role of knights in armor who want to challenge the dangerous wreckage that stands astride the jewels. But the city won't let them in.

"We could get our stuff out of there in an hour if we were permitted to go in" one of them commented after a meeting of the former tenants. They discussed salvage plans with the contractor hired by the city to clear the debris. Their stock is located in several large sales scattered in what were ground floor offices.

Dulles Now Ike's Responsibility

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any future criticism of Secretary of State Dulles for his handling of foreign affairs must include President Eisenhower. Eisenhower has taken equal responsibility for whatever Dulles has done.

Dulles has done.

That's covering a lot of ground. Nevertheless, in the midst of the worst attack on Dulles in his four years in office, Eisenhower has not only put his arm around him but has opened his personal umbrella over him.

Eisenhower was practically forced into it.

In the past few weeks, some Senate Democrats have opened up on Dulles almost violently, even to the point of suggesting he quit. As members of an opposition political party they had been almost strangely mild in their criticism for four years.

But American Allies abroad have been blaming Dulles for his handling of problems in the Middle East. Eisenhower had three choices: get rid of Dulles, back him up, or stay silent.

But if he kept quiet, friends and foes at home and abroad could interpret it as a form of Presidential criticism or, worse for American foreign policy, weakness in the White House. Either way this country's foreign relations would suffer.

Eisenhower apparently was bothered by things being said about Dulles—and through Dulles, about the administration's handling of foreign affairs—for he went out of his way at a luncheon with senators Tuesday to praise his secretary.

He was given his chance to elaborate at his news conference yesterday when a reporter reminded the President he had once called Dulles the best secretary in our time and asked him if he still felt the same way.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cole had as

Eisenhower said he stood on that. But he then went further, saying Dulles has a "wisdom and experience and knowledge (in for eign affairs) that I think is possessed by no man — no other man in the world."

And I took one more step by telling the world indirectly that any criticism of Dulles should include Eisenhower, for he said: "Secretary Dulles, to the best of my knowledge and belief and I keep, I assure you, very close touch — has never taken any action which I have not in advance approved."

The word "action" in this sense would, it seems, have to include what has often appeared like a lack of action and a change in tactics.
For example, Dulles had years to prepare a plan, along with this country's British and French allies, to prevent the Communists from taking over Indochina.

But when the collapse of Indochina was imminent, Dulles had no plan and at that last moment went racing off to Europe to see if he could get joint action from the allies.

When Dulles dawdled on giving Egypt arms until President Nasser bought them from Russia, that too was an action.

It was also an action when Dulles not only refused Nasser money for the Aswan Dam but also unnecessarily be little the ability of Egypt to pay its bills. Nasser within a week after that seized the Suez Canal and the Middle East was in turmoil.

It was also an action when, trying to find a way out of the canal seizure, Dulles talked in terms of a strong plan — called the users association — before setting out for Britain. Once there, he toned down his plan until it was meaningless. And his performance there infuriated Britain and France.

The Democrats who have re-lapsed from criticism of Eisenhower may now feel free, as they pursue their criticism of Dulles, to start attacking the President.

Would Like to Know Who His Wife Is

NEW YORK (AP)—Millionaire John Jacob Astor wishes the Manhattan State Supreme Court would hurry up and tell him which of his two wives is his legal spouse.

Through his attorney Barent Ten Eyck, the pudgy society sportsman told Justice Samuel Gold yesterday that he wants to know pretty soon because income tax filing time is rolling around.

Astor said he was paying a total of $3,250 monthly alimony to his two wives, the former Gertrude Gretsck of Brooklyn (Wife No. 2) and the former Dolores (Dolly) Fullman of Miami Beach, Fla. (Wife No. 3).

Astor has asked the court to decide which of the two is his legal wife. Ten Eyck appeared in court yesterday to argue against dismissal of Astor's petition.

The dismissal was sought in a motion filed by Louis Nizer, attorney for Miss Fullman. Nizer let it be known that his client is well satisfied with the way matters now stand, including the $250 monthly alimony. Astor married Miss Fullman in 1954, a week after he received a Mexican decree ending his 10-year marriage to Miss Gretsck.

Astor and Miss Fullman separated after 41 days and she won separate maintenance suit in Florida in 1955 which provided alimony payments.

He got mad enough to do something about it.

Idea From Phonograph

Howey tricked his father into buying him an Edison phonograph machine for Christmas of 1899. He pretended that he wanted to acquire some musical culture, while he actually hoped to re-build the machine into his direct engraver.

Howey had gotten the idea of an electronic engraver from a magazine article about an entirely different machine. And, he had learned something about electronics by working nights around the telephone exchange in Fort Dodge.

Christmas day he ran through the streets to his uncle's house where he proudly announced that he had invented his machine. His uncle, who was an engineer and inventor, could see that he had proved the basic idea of his invention.

It would be years later before the invention was perfected by Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corporation. Meanwhile, Howey left Fort Dodge to gain fame as a rough-and-tumble newspaper editor. He skyrocketed through the Hearst organization and tales of his exploits are legendary. It is said that the successful Broadway play "Frontage" was patterned after his experiences. But that's another story.

What delayed the perfection of electronic engraving? Well, the radio tube and the photo-electric cell had to be invented first. During the forty years after he left Fort Dodge, Howey tried to carry on experiments with other elements and components. He even tried to concoct a chemical substance of his own — and he was thrown out of his hotel residence for smelling up the building.

By the late 20's and early 30's the radio tube and photoelectric cell were perfected and for the first time it looked as though Howey's dream would come true. A young radio engineer, John Hancock, joined Howey and took over most of the experiments. It was Hancock who eventually built the first engraving machine.

However, this first machine, and later modifications, would not make engravings of acceptable newspaper quality. Howey and Hancock were trying to make metal engravings and the method was unsuccessful.

About this time, mid-thirties, the large newspapers got into a race to invent a means for sending news photographs by wire. Hearst named Howey head of the project.

As will give several flower demonstration arrangements, and all members are urged to be present.

ternational News Photos and told him to win the race.

Howey had to stop all experiments on the electronic engraver and he brought John Hancock into the picture to help him build a practical apparatus for picture transmission. It was easy for Hancock who had the years of experience working on the electronic engraver. Six months later he completed the first portable picture transmission device.

The engraving machine was not forgotten. But Howey and Hancock didn't have time to get back to serious experiments because they had a nation-wide picture transmission hook-up to complete. Then, Fairchild came into the picture.

Sherman Fairchild

The Fairchild company started in 1920 when young Sherman Fairchild sold his idea for the first aerial camera to the Army. Later Fairchild built the first airplane and developed the science of mapping by aerial photography. Then as aviation stopped "flying by the pants" Fairchild had to invent new instruments such as the radio compass.

At the time Howey was establishing INP, Fairchild was well known for its fine recording equipment which was an outgrowth of the company's electronic experience. Howey needed a good recording machine for his complicated picture transmission system Fairchild engineers were called in.

One of these engineers saw Howey's "direct engraver" and knew that Fairchild could make it work. Within a month Howey had licensed Fairchild to develop and manufacture his machine.

It wasn't long after Fairchild engineers got started that the war clouds broke. As Hitler's armies smashed across Europe, work on the Scan-A-Graver had to stop. Fairchild was one of the first companies to be completely mobilized for defense production.

Soon after V-J Day in 1945, Fairchild engineers were back at work on the Scan-A-Graver program. For several months they tried to make Howey's machine work, and then started all over on a design of their own.

The new design incorporated a principle using plastic for the engraving material. This invention was the work of George Washington, Jr., of the office family. Fairchild obtained the manufacturing rights from Washington and a few months later a "breadboard" Scan-A-Graver was making good newspaper halftones.

The next step to try new design under actual newspaper operating conditions and several experimental machines were subjected to field tests for about a year. During this time many "bugs" were located and eliminated and the Scan-A-Graver was re-designed for production. The first models were delivered in February 1949 and since then hundreds of newspapers have installed the Scan-A-Graver. In fact, since 1949 the number of newspapers which can use pictures has tripled because of the Scan-A-Graver.

DOROTHY DIX

She's Pregnant — and He Wants Sympathy!

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am desperately in need of your motherly advice. I am 24 years old and come from a highly respected family. Several months ago I started a foolish affair with a married woman. She is now pregnant, and her husband is in service abroad. He doesn't know the facts, but since something similar happened before, and he accepted the situation, he'll doubtless forgive her. My family knows I've been seeing her, and as soon as her condition becomes apparent, they will naturally know of my part. My fears are for them, and for me if her husband decides on divorce. With her reputation, I'd be afraid to marry her.

DISTRAUGHT

Dear Distraught: You're welcome to weep on my shoulder, but I'm afraid the motherly advice you seek will not be to your liking.

You have encompassed quite a bit of the realm of sin in your to-morrow career. Flagrant adultery, shifting of responsibility, gross neglect of the feelings of others — yet to you it all adds up to "a foolish affair." "Sin" is an unpleasant word, I know, and in this enlightened age is often considered corny and old-fashioned. It still calls for recognition and atonement, however. You have no regrets for the wrongs you have done, only for the bad opinion friends and relations will have of you.

Your problems will not be solved in a letter, nor in quite a spell of living. In fact, it may take a lifetime to straighten them out. The immediate dilemma will be solved for the girl by her husband's complacency; for you by the general attitude toward masculine errors — "After all, he's a man."

People are prone to overlook the fact that a man should have honor.

or, decency and respect for the moral code. You need to delve deeper for the ultimate solution. Through soul-searching will help enormously.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Where can I apply for work with children? I am 50 years old and love to be around youngsters.

MRS. P. K. Dear Mrs. P. K.: If you want work with a family, see an employment agency. If institutional work is your goal, consult hospitals and homes in your vicinity. The yellow pages of your classified books lists them.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My sister-in-law, of whom I am very fond, frequently invites me over for coffee. However, I am never asked to participate in her other activities.

AMELIA Dear Amelia: Have you at any time voiced your dislike of these activities? Your sister-in-law invites you to coffee, which is a particularly intimate occasion, so I'm sure she likes you. Undoubtedly she feels, for one reason or another, that you wouldn't like her other gatherings.

Kentucky Again Looks Like Best in Conference

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

For the 12th time in the last 14 years it seems that the Southeastern Conference basketball crown may turn out to be a Kentucky "derby."

Baron Adolph Rupp's Wildcats from the Blue Grass had to settle for second place a year ago in the SEC, but last night they went out front by a half-length in this year's race with a 84-53 triumph over Georgia. And it's mighty tough to catch a Kentucky entry when they're nearing the home stretch.

Georgia was simply no match for Kentucky, falling behind 45-28 at halftime and struggling against the reserves throughout the second half.

Sophomore Johnny Cox led Kentucky scores with 22 points as the Wildcats, ranked the nation's No. 1 team by the United Press board of coaches, gained their 14th victory in 17 starts and their sixth in seven league games. They took a half-game lead over Duke, which had been tied for the lead.

North Carolina, the nation's No. 2 team, also saw action last night but only in a "tune-up" 77-59 romp over little Western Carolina to extend its perfect record to 16-0. Lennie Rosenbluth paced the Tar heels with 24 points, 22 of them in the first half as Coach Frank McGuire relied on reserves a good part of the way.

Otherwise, the spotlight last night was on free throw shooting as Dave Ricketts of Duquesne established a new major college record of 40 straight. The mark will be threatened tonight when Jackie Murdock of Wake Forest, who has canned 37 in a row, goes out against Virginia.

Ricketts, brother of former Duquesne All-American Dick Ricketts, hit 10-for-10 on free throws last night in a 71-67 victory over St. Francis of Brooklyn and his streak is still "alive" for possible additions when Duquesne plays again next Monday against Niagara. Ricketts, who had 28 points to take scoring honors for the game, thus passed the old major college mark of 38 straight free throws set earlier this season by Chet (The et) Forte of Columbia.

In other leading games last night, Connecticut extended its Yankee Conference perfect record of 3-0 and set a conference scoring record with a 124-92 victory over Maine as six-seeded Al Cooper led the way with 30 points; Bill Ebben of Detroit scored 30 points, boosting his per game average for the season to 26.4, in a 91-81 victory over Houston in the Missouri Valley Conference; Tulsa romped to a 72-59 win over Santa Barbara, gaining its margin on free throws; Temple ripped Navy, 70-58; Texas Tech nipped Baylor, 68-65; and Dayton nearly blew a nine-point lead before beating De Paul, 75-58.

Three high-ranked teams are scheduled tonight: Louisville (No. 6), seeking to make its record 14-2 by beating Miami (Fla.); and Wake Forest (No. 14) playing Virginia and Duke (No. 19) meeting Maryland in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

NFL Launches Player Draft
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League opened its three day annual meeting here today with the college player draft. Commissioner Bert Bell immediately went to the business of completing the 30 round player draft.

The 12 teams drafted according to their final position in the 1956 NFL race with the last place Philadelphia Eagles selecting first and the world champion New York Giants last.

Expected to highlight the owners meeting to follow the draft is the list of demands by the newly formed NFL Players Assn.

Actually, only 24 rounds of the draft were to be held today. The first four rounds were held at a special session in November in order to give NFL teams an even start with Canadian league clubs.

U. S., Canada Hope to Settle Disagreement
By TOM HOGE
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States and Canada hope to settle their long-standing dispute over the right of navigation in the St. Lawrence River.

The proposal which may be submitted to the General Assembly today, was slated to take the form of a resolution. They would call for:

1. Israel's immediate withdrawal of all her forces from the Gaza Strip and the Gaza Strip, the only territories she still occupies outside the 1949 armistice line.

2. Fostering of U. N. Emergency Force (UNEF) units on both sides of the Israeli-Egyptian armistice line, including the Gaza Strip, and along Egypt's Agaba Coast until peace is stabilized. This move would require the consent of both Israel and Egypt.

Neither Israel nor Egypt gave the slightest indication they would agree.

Israel has agreed to pull out of the Agaba area only if she has concrete assurances Egypt will not again blockade Israeli shipping through the waterway connecting the port of Eilat with the Red Sea. Israel is also pressing her own offer to administer the Gaza Strip under U. N. surveillance.

The Western nations are expected to press for a quick vote on their twin resolutions when the Assembly resumes its Middle East debate, late this week or early next.

Rosen Firm is Quitting Baseball
CLEVELAND (AP) — Al Rosen says "nothing in the world" can make him change his mind about retiring from baseball.

The 33-year-old Cleveland third baseman said last fall that he would not be back this season, but that the formal announcement would have to come from the Indians.

He sent a note to friends and customers yesterday announcing that he would remain at his job as a stockbroker.

Asked about the note last night, Rosen said he made up his mind last October and that nothing in the world could make him change it.

General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland club has been non-committal about Rosen's determination to retire, saying only that the third baseman was backed by President Nasser's government said Egypt "will never consent to occupation of her territory by a single state, by a group of states or even by the United Nations itself." Egypt has demanded that Israel withdraw unconditionally from the two disputed areas.

Israel has agreed to pull out of the Agaba area only if she has concrete assurances Egypt will not again blockade Israeli shipping through the waterway connecting the port of Eilat with the Red Sea. Israel is also pressing her own offer to administer the Gaza Strip under U. N. surveillance.

The Western nations are expected to press for a quick vote on their twin resolutions when the Assembly resumes its Middle East debate, late this week or early next.

Tigers Sign Up Henderson Player
DETROIT (AP) — Bob Burnsides, 23-year-old catcher from Henderson State Teachers College at Arkadelphia, Ark., has been signed with the Detroit Tigers, it was announced yesterday.

Blevins and Nashville cage teams split a doubleheader Tuesday night in the Blevins Gym. Blevins senior girls lost out in the overtime 52 to 50 after leading most of the game. Louise Clark looped 38 points and Patsy Stroud 12 for Blevins. Mary Shannon was high for the game with 44.

Blevins senior boys scored a 55 to 40 victory with Norman Hugg hitting for 21 and Jesse Barber 18. Allen was high for the Scorpions with 16.

Blevins will entertain Emmet in two games Monday night. Reported by Janie Wilson of Blevins.

Movie Stars Pay Dearly for Divorces

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie stars pay for their divorces, both in money and personal hell.

California law sees it that they pay in money. This state has a community property law that decrees husband and wife share equally in wealth acquired during their marriage.

Some cynics claim this law has held together many a shaky marriage. But a filmland lawyer disputed this, claiming, "If a man can't live peacefully with his wife, he is liable to pay anything—even go in debt—to be free."

Errol Flynn is a classic example. He has earned millions but is a debtor, due in large part to his alimony payments to Lily Dumila and Nora Eddington.

Another case is Jack Webb. He married Julie London when both were struggling performers. He gave her a half-million of his Dagnet earnings when they divorced.

But divorce means more than money. It is also a tragedy of human conflict, and that's the area where it hurts most.

Often the whole story is not told in the divorce courts. Explained a lawyer: "The 'mental cruelty' grounds in California are so loose that almost anything can be used. Usually the wife doesn't want to harm an actor's career by saying he drank too much. So innocuous grounds are used."

But in three film breakups chosen from recent history the issues are fairly clear and they shed some light on marital problems in Hollywood. They are:

Cause No. 1—Edy the Marriner (Susan Hayward). 24, Jess Barker, 30, married Rancho Santa Fe, Calif., July 24, 1944.

Despite one separation in the first year, this marriage had the outward appearance of being a happy one for 10 years. The couple was blessed with twin boys, to whom they were devoted.

But as Susan's career rose, Jess' descended. Once a successful stage actor, he found little work in films while she was winning Academy nominations. "As a father, you ought to set an example for your sons and go to work," she told him. "You knew I was an actor when you married me," he replied.

Their smoldering differences erupted when he tossed her nude into the swimming pool after hot words. Then followed long and bitter court battles.

Diagnosis: Wife's career overshadowed husband's. Result: Divorce, Aug. 17, 1954. Cause No. 2—Greta Koenig, 30, Gregory Peck, 27, married New York City, Oct. 4, 1942.

They met when he was a budding young actor touring with Katharine Cornell and she was the star's hairdresser. The years brought them three sons, and he became a top film star. Though they appeared happy, they grew apart. He had matured and changed from the struggling actor she first knew.

He worked abroad for two years to get a tax break. When she visited him, he told her, "We would be better friends if we were not married."

Diagnosis: Estrangement. Result: Divorce, Dec. 29, 1954. Cause No. 3—Jeanne Crain, 21, Paul Brinkman, 27, married Los Angeles, Dec. 31, 1945.

Although she married against her mother's wishes, the union was believed to be one of Hollywood's happiest. They had four children and always appeared affectionate in public.

Hollywood was shocked when they separated. She said he had beaten her unconscious, ripped off her clothes and threatened to disfigure her "so I would never work again and no man would ever look at me again." Each accused the other of infidelity.

Diagnosis: Jealousy, predominance of her career.

Result: Divorce, Aug. 6, 1956; reconciled, Dec. 31, 1956, due to strength of religion and concern for children.

TV Ads Pour Out Dope on 'New' Products

By CHARLES MENCHER

NEW YORK (UPI) you've been taking your six-minute dose of television commercials with your 54 minutes of sugar-coated entertainment recently, you may have noticed that what's new is "new." The word, I mean.

Just about everything advertised on the home set these days and nights is "new." New home appliances, new pills, new elixirs of life new toilet goods, new On and on it goes: you name it and it's brand new. If you haven't noticed, don't bother; somebody has to monitor this stuff, and I'm your self-appointed monitor.

It must have started with new cars. A car can understandably be new. That is, it means the new 1957 models compare to the old be-up '56. Also, presumably, a TV set can be new for the same reason.

But how can soap be new? How can cleansing tissue be new? Unused, we hope, before it comes out of the wrapper. But new?

It was soap that set me off, in fact. On the screen flashed the brand of soap with which I've been scrubbing this old face for years and years. It was new, the man said. I object, I like my soap because it's kept me reasonably clean. Why tamper with it? Why change the good old soap by making it new and different?

There was a time when soap was just grease and potash with a little perfume thrown in. But not any more. Soap, like stomach and headache pills and powders, has all kinds of new ingredients these days. Everything has new ingredients. That, at least, is what the affable hucksters say in the commercials.

There are a good many Americans who can't resist the word "new." They want to be a courtant, as the French say.

"New" denotes prosperity, success, the knowledgeable one who has achieved and been recognized in a few communities the newness of your house, your car, your home furnishings are believed to be an indication of personal achievement. But only in a few communities.

In most communities the bid is considered much better than the new. The "new," when unduly emphasized, is downright corny.

That's what's wrong with a lot of those TV commercials. They aren't dangerous or malicious. They're just downright corny.

Union Plans to Woe Workers in the South

By NORMAN WALKER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) The AFL-CIO is reportedly considering spending seven million dollars over a three-year period to convince Southern workers they should join labor unions.

Television, radio, newspapers and billboards would be used to plug the values of union membership in an area AFL-CIO unions have found hard to organize.

At the AFL-CIO Executive Council's current winter session here, it was decided to leave more detailed plans to a public relations committee headed by a council member, President William C. Bright of the barbers

Red China Report Proves False

HONG KONG (AP) — Red China touched off a flurry today with an incorrect report that two Americans were coming across the border into Hong Kong.

Word of the imminent, unexpected arrival was given to the Hong Kong government by the Communist China Travel Service in Canton.

An American consular representative, flanked by newsmen and photographers, hurried to the border point at Louwu. But no Americans were aboard the train from Canton.

A China Travel Service agent explained the mistake: they had taken two White Russians who boarded the train at Canton to be Americans.

However, some long-time American residents of Shanghai apparently are leaving after Peiping's relaxation of restrictions on exit permits for Chinese-born families of foreigners.

Chances Good for Millwood, Other Projects

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas members of Congress may have their job cut out for them in winning authorization for three water projects in Arkansas this year.

The projects are the Millwood reservoir, in southwestern Arkansas, addition of power features to the proposed Lone Rock dam, and construction of the Gilbert flood control and power dam, both in northwestern Arkansas.

The budget Bureau already has sounded opposition to Lone Rock and Gilbert. It has stated no position on Millwood but no one will be surprised if the bureau comes out against this project.

However, the Arkansas are not too concerned since all three projects were in the omnibus authorization bill passed by Congress last year and then vetoed by the President.

With Democrats in Control of Congress again chances are good that recommendations of the Republican controlled Budget Bureau will not carry much weight. If Congress wants to vote a new authorization for such projects.

The three projects are included in an omnibus bill recently introduced in the Senate by Chairman Chavez (D-NM) of the Senate Public Works Committee. Presumably they also will be included in similar bill now being prepared for the House.

Arkansas members sponsoring the projects, of course, will have to make a case for them in hearings before the committees.

Rep. Trimble (D-Ark), sponsor of Lone Rock and Gilbert, said he understands the Budget Bureau contents these projects are not economically justified under an accounting theory used by the administration. However, he said, they are justified under the yardstick by which other similar projects in the state were justified.

He said he thought he could convince Congress the bureau should not be allowed to change the rules in the middle of the game.

The two projects would add some 57 million dollars of authorization to the previously authorized Lone Rock flood control dam which would cost about 25 million dollars.

Millwood, previously authorized for 30 million dollars, would require authorization for an additional 33 million dollars. The over-all project would involve construction of Millwood reservoir for flood control and water storage in Arkansas and construction of seven smaller upstream dams in Arkansas and Oklahoma.

When Congress passed the bill last year Sen. Kerr (D-Okl.) inserted a provision that in computing costs of power features of the dams the other incremental theory of accounting should be used. Undoubtedly the Budget Bureau would object to this.

It may be that Rep. Harris (D-Ark) will demand an investigation of the leaders on Commerce Department airplanes.

Harris had an unfortunate experience on one of them the other day.

He had an engagement to make a luncheon address in New York and hired a ride with Louis S. Rheisch, under secretary for transportation.

The plane took off in a fog all right but could not land in New York because the fog was worse there. So it circled around from about 10 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. before finally being able to put down at Newark, N. J.

"And all that time," complained Harris, "we didn't have a bite to eat. There wasn't a bit of food, a glass of water nor even a stick of chewing gum on that plane!"

When Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) blasted the administration's Middle East policy in the Senate at the moment of action. He had been studying it for some time and had drafted a statement for possible use. When the time came to speak out, he pulled the statement from a pocket and read it.

Rep. Hays (D-Ark) placed in the Congressional Record an excerpt from a speech he made in the House last July 5 on the Middle East. It was a prophetic paragraph.

"Gave dangers exist in the Middle East and the greatest threat to peace arises there. While strategic considerations are obviously of prime importance, we feel regularly see that the basic cause of the disturbances is economic."

"We must do everything in our power to prevent the outbreak of hostilities but in the long run, peace in the Middle East is dependent on political and economic stability and security."

This country, he said in the same speech, must strive to repel the Communist penetration and the best way to do that is to build strong, independent nations.

The economic part of the Eisenhower proposal reads much in the same vein.

PLENTY OF BREAKS — It was a rough landing for breaking into buildings. Police reports told of a 12-year-old boy who set off 12 separate burglar alarms while sauntering in a department store.

A woman who had escaped with surviving food to a guard post, was picked up in a restaurant on charges of breaking into another restaurant for a meal and some coffee.

An 18-year-old youngster found a policeman waiting for him on the inside of the window of a restaurant as he was halfway through.

What's Wrong With Film Marriages?

By BO THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What's the matter with movie marriages? You hear that question each time a new Hollywood divorce hits the news. The issue is raised more in other industries, rather than here. Divorce is no much a part of Hollywood that it is taken as a matter of course.

"There appears to be more divorce because the spotlight is on people here," said a leading critic. "I imagine there is no more divorce than there would be among any other group of persons of like income and living conditions."

But take a look at the multiple marriages of some of the stars. Five — Jedy Lamarr, Clark Gable (once a widower), Gloria Swanson, Rosalind Russell, Ann Blythe, etc.

Four — Rita Hayworth, Mickey Rooney, Lana Turner, Myrna Loy, Ginger Rogers, Jack Palance, Bette Davis (once a widow), William Boyd, Constance Bennett, etc.

Three — Judy Garland, Greer Garson, Marilyn Monroe, Ida Lupino, Ann Rutherford, Dick Powell, Dana Bennett, Victor Mature, Betty Hutton, Henry Fonda, Errol Flynn, John Wayne, Oson Welles, Janet Leigh, Mary Pickford, etc.

Two — Frank Sinatra, Jennifer Jones, Betty Grable, Eleanor Parker, Tyrone Power, Loretta Young, Ingrid Bergman, Robert Taylor, Charles Starobin, Jack Webb, Olivia DeHavilland, Terry Moore, Katharine Williams, Jane Bryan, Doris Day, Linda Darnell, Elizabeth Taylor (the latter two expecting to try again shortly).

One — a list of names from even an incomplete list such as the above: female stars face more divorces than male stars.

A leading filmhand lawyer, who has handled many of the divorces, explained: "A working wife places a strain on any marriage; most husbands would rather have a woman at home than a woman in the home."

Living with a movie actress is extremely difficult for a man to adjust to. He must accustom himself to having his wife absent from home a great deal of the time, to having the house managed and their children reared by hired help and to seeing his wife the center of interest whenever they go out.

The situation is even more difficult when the wife earns more than the husband. It takes an unusual man to adjust to that situation.

Psychologists, lawyers and other observers of Hollywood homes suggest other reasons why more strains are placed on filmhand marriages than normal ones:

(1) Actors are emotional people. Their work consists of dealing with emotions, and this often does not provide the stability for dealing with marriage. They may seek divorce in a flight of temperamental, regret it later.

(2) Actors are catnip people. No other class of workers has so much opportunity for extramarital dalliance.

(3) When an actor and actress marry, they are inevitably in conflict with each other's career. If the husband achieves more success, the wife often resents it. If the wife becomes more famous it is usually fatal for the marriage.

(4) The advent of fame and fortune places strains on a marriage. Many film couples are during their struggling days, find themselves in a position of spotlight. Often such situations strain different people, and they grow apart.

(5) Stars live in a goldfish bowl. A cross word spoken in public can become a headline. Gossips are alert to report rifts, often before they happen. This can create an atmosphere of doubt and suspicion, which can be deadly for a marriage.

Explosion in California Leaves 9 Dead

ALAMEDA, Calif., (AP)—Nine workmen were killed and 50 injured yesterday as two explosions and fire wrecked the tanker Jeanette, being refitted for emergency use in the Midwest oil crisis.

Six of the survivors were reported in critical condition. The 10,000-ton government-owned tanker, newly out of mothballs, was being refitted to a job, was being towed to a pier, when it exploded.

The American Transport Co. to carry oil to Europe.

Austin Shearn, assistant general manager of Todd Shipyards, said "welders' torches may have ignited petroleum fumes in the engine and boiler rooms. An investigation may determine the cause. One other shipyard official, unidentified, said heat from the torches might have set off a reserve fuel oil tank.

Survivors said bodies were hurled against bulkheads of the two rooms and against other parts of the ship.

Many of the injured — six were in critical condition — had broken bones as well as severe burns.

The tragedy occurred in Alameda at the Todd yards on the Oakland Estuary.

BUFFALO GRASS

By Frank Gruber

THE STORY: With stolen gold, Chad Morgan and Joe Jagger build a town at a railroad on the Kansas prairie. Chad goes south into Texas to tell cattlemen to drive their herds to the town Pawnee City for shipment to market. On the trip he meets a girl, Cass Simcoe.

Chapter IV

A man came out of the house, a tall, heavy-set man in his early 40's. He had a short spade beard and still wore gray woolen trousers. The stripes had been removed from the sides, but the marks of them still showed. He wore a gray wooden shirt, with a black string tie about the throat. A slouch hat was on his head.

"Here he comes," said Cass Simcoe. "Dad, this is Mr. Morgan. He wants to talk to you. Although he wouldn't say why, but I got to warn you right away. He's a Yankee."

"Cassie!" remonstrated General Simcoe. He turned to Morgan, bowed stiffly, but did not offer to shake hands. "How do you do, sir?"

Morgan nodded. "How are you, General? I'll get right to the point. I understand you graze quite a few head of cattle—"

"A cloud seemed to pass over the general's features. "That's about all I have these days, cattle."

"We're poor," interrupted Cass Simcoe. "You Yankees look away everything we had and the general isn't even allowed to vote—"

"Please, Cass," said the general. "Mr. Morgan isn't interested in our problems."

"Perhaps I am, sir," said Morgan. He took a folded bill from his pocket and opened it, extended it to General Simcoe. The latter hesitated, then began reading the bill. He shook his head.

"Is this why you're called, Mr. Morgan?" he asked. "Because if it is, I'm not interested. I tried to drive a small herd north last year and some of your—ah—some ruffians—"

"Jayhawkers," suddenly snapped the general. "Riffraff! They weren't satisfied with cutting the herd 25 per cent, they stampeded the balance. We never got to Joplin and I was out the expenses of the drive—"

"You wouldn't be going anywhere near Missouri," said Morgan. "Pawnee City is a considerable distance west of the territory in which the Jayhawkers are operating. The drive would be quite safe and ready money would be waiting for you."

"Money!" cried Cass. "That's one thing we haven't got any of. Golly, how I'd like to have some money. Even Yankee money."

Morgan reached into his pocket and took out a silver dollar. He extended it to her. She started to reach for it, shot a quick look at her father's frowning face, then shook her head. "I'm too cold to take money from men."

"Mr. Morgan," said the general. "I presume this is your name on this bill."

"It is, sir. My partner, Mr. Jagger, and I are building this town on the new Kansas & Colorado Railroad. It's approximately 100 miles west of Kansas City. The railroad has guaranteed us a siding, ample shipping facilities—"

"You own a whole town, Mister?" exclaimed Cass. "You must be filthy rich!"

Morgan sent a look toward the three men by the corral. The general interpreted the look. "This is their home. I could not turn them out."

The trail was a year and a half old. Many rains, snow and sleet had come and gone. Yet there were traces of the rearguard skirmish and Tom Alder had the time to study them.

There had been a casual s on both sides and he found the burial mounds, a long low mound and a shallow grave below, in which were buried the remains of 11 former Confederates and a more deeply dug, smaller grave in which five Union soldiers had been interred.

Alder widened the scope of his search and it was thus that he came upon the overturned ambulance at the edge of the canyabrake.

He buried the bones, but not before he studied them carefully and found the chunk of lead in the skull, in a position which told Alder that it had been driven into the head while his brother, Jim Alder, had been lying on the ground.

Alder gave his attention then to the ambulance. He found the iron-strapped wooden chest still in an excellent state of preservation. He scraped the inside with the sharp point of a knife, found enough bits of gold to know that the chest had once been loosely packed with gold. He even found a $10 gold piece on the ground nearby, where it had been spilled in the hasty transfer of the currency to another receptacle.

The rails of the Kansas & Colorado Railroad had reached Pawnee City in early March. The framework of a depot was already up and part of it had even been boarded over, but there was no sign on it to identify Pawnee City. It wasn't necessary, of course.

Parties Split on Filing Air Report Probe

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) Democrats and Republicans on a special Senate subcommittee which made a sweeping investigation of the nation's airpower split squarely on party lines today in filing their report.

The three Democrats said that the United States is becoming increasingly vulnerable to sneak Russian attack and that programs to improve means of retaliation are lagging.

The two Republicans called the majority report "unduly pessimistic," and said that "our airpower

The almost completed stockyards and loading pens, the siding, were identification enough. And if that were not enough there was the gigantic structure on the south side of the tracks, that would be the biggest hotel west of Kansas City. Chad Morgan was a passenger on the first train that went all the way into Pawnee City. It was actually a work train, consisting of a dozen cars carrying railroad ties, one freight car with supplies for the firm of Jagger & Morgan and a caboose at the end of it, in which Morgan traveled.

and our naval strength, together with our ground forces, make us superior to the Soviet Union today."

There was no immediate comment from the Defense Department.

Meanwhile, Sen. Bridges (R-NH), told a reporter the Senate Appropriations Committee would be the final referee in questions posed by the airpower probe.

"The Appropriations Committee that provides the funds will have to make the final decisions after following up the information in the report," said Bridges, who is senior Republican on that committee.

"We have got to be sure that the military equipment which is placed on order is going to be the latest development in the science of offense and defense."

The majority report was signed by the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Symington (D-Mo), first man to serve as secretary of the Air Force, and Senators Jackson (D-Wash) and Ervin (D-NC).

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee, presented the minority report. It was concurred in by former Sen. Duff (R-Pa), who was a subcommittee member when the hearings took place from April to July last year.

More than 90 percent of the pulp and paper manufactured in the United States is made from wood.

3 Die, Damage Heavy in Flood in Kentucky

BARBOURVILLE, Ky., (AP) — Damages ran into the millions of dollars and thousands of persons in four states were forced from their homes by rain-swollen mountain rivers which promised new devastation today after taking at least three lives.

Emergency aid was rushed into southeastern Kentucky, where the flood gave indications of being the worst on record. The full extent of damage couldn't be learned.

The stricken area also included portions of Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia, where two persons drowned. An elderly Kentucky man also was swept away when his home crumbled into the floodwaters.

Scores of communities were isolated in southeastern Kentucky, a coal mining region which was hard hit by high waters as recently as 1940.

Kentucky National Guard units and 200 men of the 160th Army Engineers group from Ft. Kentucky joined evacuation operations with boats and trucks and fed refugees from mobile kitchens.

Hazards in Kentucky apparently was Hazard on the Kentucky River, where flood damages were expected to exceed five million dollars. Dewey Daniel, a Hazard banker and state Republican leader, reported: "Hazard's business section completely wiped out. Four feet of water in People's Bank."

His message was relayed by the Civil Air Patrol, which surveyed flooded areas from the air as a guide to rescue operations.

More than a thousand persons fled to higher ground from their homes in such other river towns in Kentucky as Harlan, Barbourville, Pikeville, Neon and Whitesburg.

In addition to the big Kentucky and Cumberland rivers in Kentucky, the streams out of their banks included the Pound River in Virginia, the Tug and Guyah-dotte in West Virginia, the Little Clinch and Powell rivers in upper east Tennessee. The Cumberland also reaches into Tennessee.

hinted of new developments in investigations of recent violence over bus integration. Trial delays loomed in three segregation cases elsewhere in the South.

A trial of three university students for violating a bus-seating law at Tallahassee, Fla., was postponed for short, but indefinite time.

The Palm Beach County (Fla.) school board and the Birmingham (Ala.) Transit Co. asked dismissal of federal integration suits Negroes have filed against them.

The Montgomery arrests were reported to have been made some days ago in connection with the bombing of a Negro home Sunday morning. The explosion injured a Negro cab driver at a nearby filling station.

A dynamite bomb also was thrown upon the porch of the home of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Negro Baptist minister who has led the bus integration movement in Miami. The bomb failed to go off.

City Judge John Rudd of Tallahassee yesterday postponed the trial of Joe Spagna, a white student, and of Johnny Herndon and Leonard Speed, both Negro students, for sitting together on a city bus.

Spagna, 25, a Florida State university student, and Herndon, 26 and Speed, 24, both students of the Negro Florida A. and M. university, admitted they wanted to test the bus segregation law.

The trial originally was set for Thursday. The students are freed under $50 bonds.

Other developments: Authorities in Pascagoula, Miss., linked a cross-burning with a protest against a Negro March of Dimes benefit partly at which about a dozen white persons helped out. The cross was burned yesterday in front of the Negro Veterans of Foreign Wars building where the benefit was held.

—North Carolina State College officials reported that two Negro engineering students will be given a room together in a regular dormitory on the campus at Raleigh this spring. The students, among first Negro undergraduates admitted last year to the once all-white college lived off the campus last fall.

Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida reported he had turned over to Miami police a protest against "intimidatory" statements allegedly made by David Hawthorne, outspoken segregationist. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at Miami had asked Collins to conduct his own investigation.

- Just tell the Long Distance operator:
 - The city you're calling
 - The telephone number you're calling
- Like this: "Chicago... SKYLINE 4-9981"
- If you don't know the number, just give the operator the name and address of the party you're calling, and tell her: "Please make this call station-to-station."
- That's all there is to it. The operator will give you the number to jot down for future use... and your call will be charged at the lower station-to-station rate.
